

Press Release

Electric December: Through My Eyes

2 December

How do Bristolians see their city? What are their passions and what do they like and dislike about Bristol? Window number 2 brings together a selection of the opinions and passions of locals, building a fascinating picture of how we live in Bristol in 2006.

The BBC in partnership with Community Service Volunteers has collected stories from people who live in Bristol which try to paint a contemporary picture of the city. You can hear from seven-year-old Laurence, whose imagination jumps from present day Bristol to Medieval times to Dr Who, also see an alternative view of Bristol by Jeff, who changes the meanings of Billboards in Bristol to reflect the current political climate.

Electric December is Watershed's widely acclaimed online digital advent calendar, which offers a new and totally unique digital present every day from 1 Dec - counting you down to Christmas.

Notes to editors

- You can hear from all the participants by visiting http://www.bbc.co.uk/bristol/content/articles/2006/06/16/through_my_eyes_feature.shtml
- Three elements make up each personal view of the city: written words, spoken audio and photographs, taken by students at Filton College.
- Electric December is an example of the work contributing to Bristol's bid to The Digital Challenge, which offers a £7m prize to develop a showcase zone for eGovernment and ICT innovation - find out more at <http://www.egovmonitor.com/node/1716>
- Find out more about Electric December, and download images and press releases at <http://www.electricdecember.org/06/press>
- Electric December is a Watershed project supported by Bristol City Council and Bristol Evening Post.
- You can see the last seven years of Electric December now at
- www.electricdecember.org
- For further press information contact Taranjit Bahra or Anja Dalton on 0117 927 6444 or taranjit@watershed.co.uk / Anja.Dalton@watershed.co.uk